RALEIGH IN BRIEF.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CAPITAL.

Short Items of News Gathered on the Fly by the Chronicle's Reporters.

A series of meetings is in progress at the colored Methodist church in East Raleigh.

Some vigorous efforts are in progress for the formation of a big land and improvement company here. The unpaved space on the wide sidewalk in front of the government building is being richly and beautifully turfed. The Victor Fire company (col.) gave some exhibition runs on Fayetteville street yesterday, and created some interest and amusement. The number of young lady students at Peace Institute is rapidly increasing. Several more arrived from various points yesterday. The marriage of two very popular young people will occur in the city tomorrow evening at four o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. W. C. Stronach yesterday received six dollars for the Soldiers' Home, which was contributed by a sewing society of little girls in the northern part of the Raleigh, who have been visiting rela-

Somehow a rumor has gotten affoat that a new cotton factory is to be built in the vicinity of the water works, south watch things for a few weeks.

There are three tobacco warehouses in this city for the sale of leaf tobacco. No matter what may be said about Raleigh as a tobacco market, the day is not far distant when it will be second to none in the state in the leaf trade.

A large coal shute is being constructed by the Raleigh & Gaston railroad at the Y in the western part of the city. ing to the coal dealers.

The Henderson Tomahawk no longer exists, but the "Hatchett" still lives. The paper has suspended and its editor expended. We are sorry, for its sharp and cutting editorials will be missed, and while the Hatchett is not buried, we may vet hope that he will ere soon begin again scalping its political foes.

One of Raleigh's very best and mest prudent business men said yesterday, in the presence of witnesses, that he would be willing to vote city bonds to the amount of $300,000 to be applied to inducing railroads to come into Raleigh. He rightly said: "When you look on a map and see many railroads centering at a place, that place is a prosperous Railroads make towns prosper-

RALEIGH CHURCHES.

Some Notes of What They are Doing. At the Baptist Tabernacle on Sunday, twenty-three new scholars were enrolled in the Sunday-school, and the attendance was 350. Two new members were received into church membership by letter, and one for baptism. It was announced in Central M. E.

church that the services would be protracted during the week. The evening service was a warm and interesting one. several people asked for prayer. Quarterly services were held in Edenton Street church, Rev. Dr. W. S. Black officiating. A set of resolutions was presented and adopted in the Sundayschool in memoriam of Miss Lillian Parker, who was one of its brightest and most loved members.

At the First Baptist Sunday school, 295 scholars were present. A collection was taken for the support of the orphans supported by the school at the Thomasville Orphanage, and $16.95 was realized.

The Raleigh Public Schools.

The Raleigh public schools will reopen Friday, Sept 12th, at 9. a. m.

She was very recently elected not only a convenience but a great sav- a member of the faculty of the Ruleigh graded schools, and about the same time she was elected to the faculty of the Winston graded school. Her Raleigh friends will regret very much to know that the nature of the proposition from Winston is such that she has decided to accept it, and she will leave for that place to-day.

RAILROADS FOR RALEIGH.

What May Be Done if Some Reports Are True--Will Raleigh Keep Her Eye on the Main Chance.

The CHRONICLE has a notion -a deepooted notion—that a railroad is a Liz factor in the matter of helping and developing a town.

The CHRONICLE has ventured to suggest to herself in the matter of securing and building railroads. The probable reason is that with so many good things and advantages, Raleigh thinks she is good enough and has enough.

This would be so if it were not impossible to have "too much of a good thing" (properly applied).

It is announced that the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad company is seeking to the great C. and O. line.

THE TRADES PROCESSION FOR FAIR.

The People are Beginning to Take an an Interest in It -- Let the Parade be a Long One.

The people are waking up to the proposition and the necessity that Raleigh must provide a grand trades procession for fair week. It is quite a little time before the fair, but this early mention is appreciated, inasmuch as it gives ample time for all participants to study up ple time for all participants to study up This will greatly facilitate the handling ping with friends in the city for a day is appreciated, inasmuch as it gives amsome unique design and get it ready The CHRONICLE has called on those who would enter the procession to send in their names. So far the following have responded:
